

Natural Interaction for VR

After giving a brief introduction of Virtual Reality and its applications, I discuss the natural interaction techniques which have been employed in virtual environments such as hand/foot or other body parts motion based interaction, speech and emotion based interaction. Specifically, interaction based on hand gesture is discussed in detail. Some applications using those interactions are presented, including Virtual Network Marathon, Interactive Painting System, Driving Simulation based on Hand Tracking etc.